Identity-Based Bullying

Schools must respond appropriately to bullying and harassment and take deliberate action to prevent it, including when the bullying taking place is based on or related to a student's identity, such as their race, ethnicity, national origin, sex, gender, religion or disability status. This package includes a policy brief, model policy language and an advocacy toolkit.

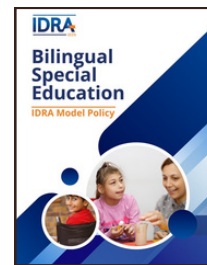

Culturally-Sustaining School Counseling

College degrees open new doors for students in their lives and in their careers. School counselors need more support to focus on what matters most: helping students access and succeed in college. This package provides a policy brief, advocacy guide and template for policy language.

Student and Family Engagement

Strong student and family engagement leads to better academic performance, better attendance and more students pursuing college and career aspirations. This package has an advocacy guide, family engagement resources for schools and a template for policy language.

Bilingual Special Education

Every child, regardless of language background or disability status, should have a full and fair opportunity to learn. IDRA's package provides a template for policy language for states to adopt a research-based teacher certification program. It also includes a policy brief and advocacy guide.
